WHAT WE'RE LOVING...

WHITE

Albarino, Eulogio Pomares 'Zarate', Rías Baixas, Spain 2014 — 65

Based on the granitic soils of Salnes Valley and embracing the pinging acidity of albariño, this wine sings on your palate. It's the grapefruit sherbet acidity & the sexy vibrancy of green citrus zest coupled with a hint of jasmine that make you salivate for more.

Sauvignon Blanc, Massican, Napa Valley, California 2013 — 75

Dan Petroski spent his early winemaking years in Sicily where he learned to appreciate how the local white wines reflected the permeating elements of the Mediterranean Sea, local orange blosssoms, lemon trees and almonds. Massican is dedicated to making white wines only and is named after the Monte Massico coastal mountain range in the south of Italy. The wines that Dan makes are some of the most nuanced and game-changing whites in all of Napa.

Kerner, Pacherhof, Alto Adige, Italy 2011 — 64

Lemon curd and alpine white flowers bound from the glass with a racy core of acidity, surrounded by green and golden orchard fruit, savory wax beans and wet stone. Kerner flies under the radar because not much is planted and even smaller amounts get exported. Try it while you can!

Chardonnay, Saint-Véran, Denis Jeandeau, Mâconnais, France 2012 — 80

Saint-Véran is a village in the Mâconnais that sits next to a well known neighbor, Pouilly-Fuissé, who uses its notoriety to command princely prices. Saint-Véran has similar soils as its neighbor but since it is under the proverbial radar, we are able to source quality wines without the famous price tag.

RED

Reuilly, Domaine les Poëtes, Central Vineyards, Loire Valley, France 2013 — 80

This 100% Pinot Noir is from a lesser known appellation that is experiencing a renaissance. Silky minerality, remeniscent of Burgundy, and precise tannins are surrounded by brambly red and black cherry fruit. Guillaume Sorbe is a Sommelier-turned-Winemaker and is a rising star in the Loire Valley. "Moins mais mieux" - "less but better" is his motto and precision and biodynamics are his game.

Trousseau des Dames, Frédéric Lornet, Arbois, France 2011 — 68

Trousseau, while being a minor player in the larger French varietal picture, happens to be the most serious red grape in the obscure Jura region. This bottling is a single vineyard that has extremely small yields which translates to beautiful concentration of wild strawberries and raspberries while maintaining a firm tannic structure.

Castello Solicchiata, Barone Spitaleri di Muglia, Sicily, Italy 2007 — 78

Cabernet Franc, Cabernet Sauvignon and Merlot, make up this silky Bordeaux blend. Baron Felice founded his winery in 1850 and is very possibly Italy's first Bordeaux style, and definitely Sicily's first. The estate holds on to this wine an extra 3 years in bottle to ensure the wine reaches a certain maturity before release. Dense cassis and plum pervade this wine while the 24 months in new oak impart toasty elements and volcanic soil give it an unmistakeable Italian hallmark.

Pinot Noir, The Eyrie Vineyards, Dundee Hills, Oregon 2013 — 85

David Lett, was the first to plant pinot noir in the Willamette Valley in 1965, a true wine pionee. Cherry fruit and a Burgundian nuance of mushrooms and wet forest floor spring from the glass on the nose and the palate, which explains why Burgundy producers are buying Oregon vineyards.
